Sorting and Filtering Data in Power BI

Problem Statement

A sales manager wants to identify the company's highest-value transactions and underperforming products using the Sales Analysis dataset. Sorting and filtering techniques in Power BI are used to extract the most relevant business information, compare transaction revenue, and identify products that may require further review.

Methodology / Steps Followed

Step 1: Load the Dataset

Opened Power BI Desktop and used the provided sales_analysis_dataset.xlsx dataset. The sales data was loaded into Power BI for analysis.

Step 2: Check and Prepare Data

Reviewed the fields used in the report, including Transaction ID, Date, Region, Product, Customer, Revenue, Profit and Margin. Data types were checked and adjusted where required.

Step 3: Create the Top Transactions Table

Added a table visual with transaction details and revenue. Sorted revenue from highest to lowest and applied a Top N filter to show the highest-value transactions.

Step 4: Filter High-Value Transactions

Created a second table and applied a revenue threshold of $32,400 or more to identify high-value transactions.

Step 5: Identify Underperforming Products

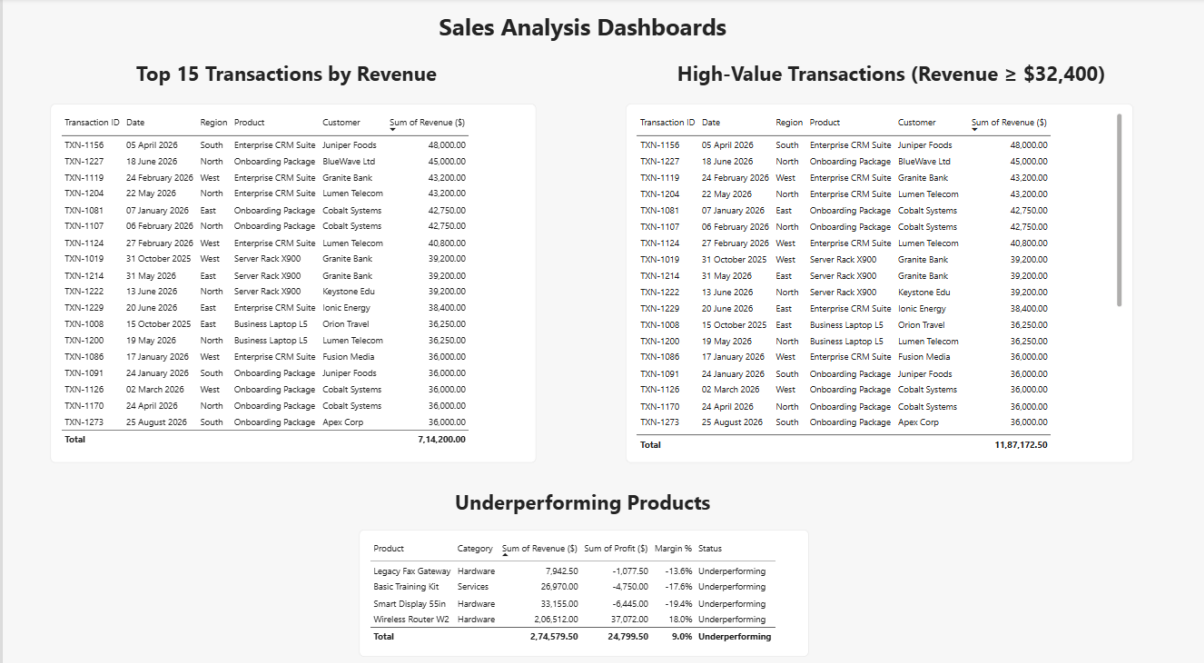

Created a product-level table containing revenue, profit, margin and status. Filtered the table to show the four products classified as underperforming and sorted revenue in ascending order.

Step 6: Format the Dashboard

Added clear titles above all three tables and arranged them on one report page for easier comparison. The dashboard was saved as a Power BI (.pbix) file.

Output

The completed dashboard contains three tables: Top 15 Transactions by Revenue, High-Value Transactions (Revenue ≥ $32,400), and Underperforming Products.

Key findings:

- Top transactions: TXN-1156, for Enterprise CRM Suite in the South region, has the highest listed revenue of $48,000.
- The Top 15 display contains 18 rows because five transactions are tied at $36,000.
- High-value transactions: 32 transactions have revenue of at least $32,400, with combined revenue of $11,87,172.50.
- Underperforming products: Legacy Fax Gateway, Basic Training Kit, Smart Display 55in and Wireless Router W2 are flagged. The first three have negative margins; Wireless Router W2 has a low revenue contribution despite an 18% margin.

Conclusion

Sorting and filtering in Power BI were used to identify the highest-revenue transactions, isolate transactions with revenue of $32,400 or more, and highlight four underperforming products. The dashboard presents these results in a clear, comparable format. The findings suggest reviewing costs and pricing for products with negative margins and investigating whether Legacy Fax Gateway should continue to be offered.
